Perhaps with perhaps a little more free time in his future, Walker can do more of the things he loves: hiking, playing Frisbee, and shooting hoops.

Prior to graduation (and he accepted it), Interfor has agreed to pay for Walker's graduate education in the coming year. Walker's involvement on campus and beyond has been significant in many ways. Walker's dedication to assisting other students is evident through his work as a Peer Consultant (tutor), TOP tutor and Supplemental Instructor for accounting classes. Walker also served as the event planner for the Campus Activities Board and as a Business Ambassador in support of the Management department. This year, Walker was also a member of Oregon Tech's team that competed in the Institute of Management Accountants (IMA) national student case study which placed in the Elite 8 (and currently waiting for final announcement of this year's winners).

Academically, Walker has certainly excelled with only one B in three years! He was selected as the Outstanding Scholar for his major and the President's Senior Cup, the highest academic award, plus the Most Dedicated Student Award this year. His high academic marks and personality landed him an internship last summer at Interfor (a lumber company) in Port Angeles, Washington, where he made such an impression that he was offered a full-time position upon graduation (and he accepted it). Interfor has agreed to pay for Walker's graduate education in the coming year.

Perhaps with perhaps a little more free time in his future, Walker can do more of the things he loves: hiking, playing Frisbee, and shooting hoops.

Christian Gomez
Biology-Health Sciences and Chemistry minor; Student Achievement Award; Outstanding Scholar; President's Senior Cup

Christian moved to Klamath Falls from Sherwood, Oregon, after graduating from Sherwood High School in 2017, with all of his math requirements (through Math 252) and various AP science classes completed. As a pre-med student, Christian focused not only on his academic success but also on serving other students and his community. Christian was accepted into the Oregon Tech Honors Program in 2018, which fostered his inner curiosity and academic success.

Academically, Christian excelled in his classes (only one B in four years) and was awarded the Outstanding Scholar for his major. Christian is also this year’s recipient of the Student Achievement Award and the President’s Senior Cup. Christian was a key contributor on a team that worked on neuroscience research project involving rats, which was also selected to be presented at the Western Regional Honors Conference in April. Christian served as a teaching assistant for the Organic Chemistry courses where he hosted study sessions, tutored, assisted with labs, and graded assignments, quizzes and labs.

Christian also served as president of the Biology-Health Sciences Club this year and even through the virtual interactions, led the group to make 84 full-size blankets for High Desert Hospice and they received a volunteer excellence award for their work. Christian and another student spent this year to get a student chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, the National Pre-health Honors Society, established at Oregon Tech, which will be the first chapter in Oregon.

Christian plans take some time to apply to medical school with a start date of fall, 2022, where he will strive to be a passionate pediatrician and to continue to serve his community.

Population Health Management; Outstanding Scholar

Josie is from Lakeview, Oregon, and came to Oregon Tech in 2018 after transferring from Linn Benton Community College, where she completed prerequisites for a Medical Imaging Technology program. Josie changed her major from MIT and found her passion in the Population Health Management program, where she can “give back to healthcare” in response to her surviving cancer.

Josie’s interest in helping others is immediately evident by her smile (which is always present) and her ever-present positive attitude. Josie’s campus involvement includes being an active member of Kappa Xi Alpha sorority and participating in many campus and community service events. Josie also served as an officer in the Associated Students of Oregon Institute of Technology (ASOIT; student government) this year. Josie also held an internship with the Population Health Management Research Center and worked on a suicide prevention program for a primary medical care setting.

As a first-generation college student, Josie attributes her success to the support of her parents, grandparents, TOP advisors and her faculty members. Josie’s perseverance and desire to push through failure to be a stronger student is truly evident in being named the Outstanding Scholar for her major!

Josie’s future plans include beginning her career as a patient coordinator for an oncology department, with her sights on a management position eventually, while also fulfilling her dreams to travel the world.

Academic Regalia

The dress worn by faculty and graduates during commencement ceremonies is based upon costumes used in 14th- and 15th-century universities, particularly Oxford and Cambridge in England. This style of academic dress and accoutrements, used in the United States since colonial times, was standardized by an Intercollegiate Code in 1895.

The variety of styles and colors reflects the wide variety of designs in doctoral robes. When a university is granted the right to confer doctoral degrees, one of the accompanying privileges is the opportunity to design unique and distinctive regalia for its graduates.

The academic costume typically consists of the cap or mortar-board, the gown and the hood. The cap, patterned after those worn at Oxford, is generally black and may be of any material—except velvet, which is reserved for doctoral caps. The color of tassel worn on the cap indicates what kind of degree the wearer has earned.

The gown indicates the level of the degree. Gowns for bachelor's or master's degrees lack any trim, while doctoral gowns are distinguished by velvet panels down the front and three velvet bars on the sleeve. As with the tassel, the trim color indicates the subject of the degree. The academic gown is usually black; however, blue gowns are being donned today by those receiving the associate degrees.

The hood is worn with master's and doctoral degree gowns only, with the exception of Nursing. Doctoral robes have a larger and more open hood, but both are decorated with colors indicating the subject area of the degree received and the institution which granted it.

List of Graduates
The list of graduate names was provided to the printer one month prior to commencement to allow for production and distribution of this program. The status of some candidates may have changed since that time. The listing of a name in this program does not obligate Oregon Institute of Technology to award a degree. For official purposes, a final corrected list of graduates will be retained by the Office of the Registrar.

This commencement program was produced by the Oregon Tech Marketing, Communications & Public Affairs Office and the Registrar's Office. A special thanks to Doug Halvorsen, Graphic Designer, for layout of this publication and Smith Bates MarComm Solutions for printing of this publication.

Special Thanks
Commencement is a collaborative effort, planned and organized through the Registrar's Office and the Oregon Tech Commencement Committee, which includes representatives from Alumni Relations, Campus Dining, Student Involvement & Belonging, College Union, Disability Services, Facility Services, Information Technology Services, Marketing, Communications & Public Affairs, President's Office, Student Affairs, and the Tech Nest Bookstore.
