Office of Academic Excellence: (AVP Dr. Battaglia)

In collaboration with online education (Director: Carrie Dickson) a little over $73,000 from HECCin GEER Funds were used:

- to become institutional members of Quality Matters and the Online Learning Consortium. These are the two top online professional development organizations for online learning. All Oregon Tech employees have access to their resources and can purchase trainings with their professional development funds at the discounted membership rates.

-to purchase Respondus 4.0 which facilitates more efficient use of online formative and/or summative assessments using multiple choice questions.

-to purchase YuJa video software platform. YuJa is designed to video capture face-to-face classes, either using the YuJa software or Zoom. After the class is recorded, faculty can then embed quiz items into the captured class video to assess student learning from that class session. Also, after faculty post the video into Canvas for student access, students can take notes alongside the video (frame by frame), search the video for key terms, and watch the video as many times as they wish. All videos are automatically transcribed. This academic technology tool will benefit all learners, but especially underrepresented students.

Oregon Tech is considering adopting Simple Syllabus which will allow for greater consistency of institutional policies being included in all course syllabi across the institution. Plus, all program learning outcomes will be included in all syllabi. Simple Syllabus will aid with course transfer decisions as it includes a syllabus repository. Simple Syllabus is integrated within Canvas, fully ADA compliant, and can be translated into any language using Google Translate.

Associate Vice Provost for Academic Excellence represents Oregon Tech on the HECC Learning Outcomes and Assessments Public University Group.

50% of this year's program assessment reports have been submitted to the Office of Academic Excellence. Scoring of these reports will be underway shortly by the Assessment Executive Committee.

Convocation

Convocation took place over five days in virtual format. A separate half day event was held at PM a week later. A post-convocation survey was sent to the campus community and responses disseminated to all. Suggestions and comments will be considered in planning for the 2022 event.

This year four Keynote Speakers (external) were included in the program:

-“Intentionality By Design: Strengthening and Sustaining a Culture of Equity”. Dr. Tia Brown McNair, Vice President in the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Student Success and Executive Director for the Truth, Racial Healing, and Transformation (TRHT) Campus Centers at the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U) in Washington, DC.

Later this Fall, the library will be creating new student group and individual study spaces with updated furniture. Improvements include modern individual studypods and current-technology group study spaces so students can collaborate with their teams and other off-campus partners.

In efforts to rebuild and renew the library's physical collection:

- the library provides funds to new faculty to select relevant course and research materials to be housed in the library's collection. This creates a collection focused on student and faculty research and course support.
- by valuing a range of coverage in perspectives, authorship, audience, and subject matter. We recognize the diverse community the library serves needs inclusive collections, which are foundational for learning and a basis for the creation of new knowledge.

The library created a Textbook Affordability strategic plan outlining university-wide efforts to replace publisher's textbooks with open access course materials. These materials are either created by Oregon Tech faculty or adopted from existing materials and tailored to course needs. In the past three years, Oregon Tech faculty have saved students \$826,902.00 in textbook savings. They will pass one million dollars in textbook savings for students by the end of this Fall term!

Dual Credit – EPO is continuing to support dual credit teachers and overcome barriers that still exist for our K12 partners. Substitute shortages, COVID quarantine protocols, and learning loss have all presented new obstacles for dual credit articulations. Our faculty are continuing to meet the needs of high school teachers with after school virtual workshops and alignment meetings. This fall, we enrolled 1336 dual credit students and coordinated enrollment for 95 courses. We accommodated requests from math teachers to move courses to winter term to give students more review time before beginning college math content.

MESA – Mathematics, Engineering, Science Achievement (MESA) is a national after school program supporting early STEM experiences for middle and high school students. Oregon Tech has been partnered with MESA since 2014 in the Portland-Metro area and has recently expanded to partner with 4 schools in Klamath Falls to support this innovative pre-college work. In coordination with Oregon MESA (hosted at PSU), we have worked to garner financial support to usher in this new initiative. The program operates to serve underrepresented students in STEM fields. MESA expansion press release. We are currently hiring for another position (MESA/SMSP Coordinator) that will be a joint position to support our MESA work in the Metro area, as well as supporting grant initiatives and reporting from our partners at the South Metro-Salem STEM partnership

GIS Camp – EPO hosted a 3-day non-residential GIS summer camp with the assistance of funds from Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT). We had 13 participants from all over the state. Participants were exposed to Boundary Surveying, Engineering & Construction Surveying, Hydrographic Surveying (under water mapping of the Earth's surface), Geodesy (the “science” behind Geomatics), Remote Sensing & Photogrammetry (aerial photos for precise mapping), Math Models for Geomatics, Cartography (design & production of maps), Side Scan Radar, 3D Laser Scanning and other GIS & Surveying topics. We are in the process of reapplying for funding to host 2 residential camps for the summer of 2022.

Transfer – EPO has been hosting virtual transfer advising hours for our prospective transfer students and continuing to provide support by completing unofficial transcript evaluations for students to better understand their credit transferability. We also have a standing bi-weekly transfer advising meeting where we meet with partners across campus to engage and continually improve the student transfer process to Oregon Tech. We are finalizing the 2021-2022 articulations agreements with our CC and state-wide partners. We plan to host on-site advising visits with our CC partners that are open and welcoming higher education partners back on their campuses. These visits will be scheduled in the upcoming weeks.

AU-ABC students will have the cost differential between our online tuition and what the Air Force will pay per credit for tuition covered. to pursue their online degree in Technology and Management with Oregon Tech.
